Brethren:

In the last month, we have come to mourn the passing of two of our beloved brethren, Right Worshipful Past Grand Master John L. McCain and Right Worshipful Past Grand Warden Thomas H. Burgess. We will dearly miss Brothers McCain and Burgess. Let us hope and pray that we can continue their mission of love for our great fraternity. Please keep their families in your hearts and prayers as we mourn their passing.

The first ten months of this year have seen a steady flow of activity across this Jurisdiction.

As our Blue Lodge Officers enter the month of November, they are approaching their service in 2009 as part of the most ritualistically qualified class of Blue Lodge Officers in recent memory. The gift they are giving to this fraternity is the result of their commitment, hard work and dedication. This was accomplished by virtue of the efforts of many brethren, both students and instructors, working to prepare their fraternity for a stronger future. To each brother who was part of this magnificent achievement, thank you. This Master Mason and your brethren congratulate and thank you for what you are doing for our beloved fraternity.

Every lodge in our Jurisdiction has the opportunity to participate in the Call 'Em All program. You can read about this program on page 11 of this edition. For those lodges participating in the Call 'Em All program, communications to their membership have clearly improved. Even our lodge Worshipful Masters and Secretaries who consider themselves technically challenged have remarked how easy this tool is to use. If you have not received a call via this new tool, perhaps your lodge does not have your phone number. Contact your Worshipful Master or Secretary to make sure you are included in the most current communication tool added to their tool box.

Because of your sustained generosity, as of the end of September, over $105,000 has been contributed by Pennsylvania Masons and friends of the fraternity to the Change for the Troops calling card program. The simple act of picking up the phone to say hello is something that all of us take for granted. This is not so for our troops in harm’s way. Pennsylvania Masons are now making that call home from the desert a bit easier. Those sons, daughters, family members, friends and neighbors who are serving in Afghanistan and Iraq are seeing that Pennsylvania Masons continue to thank them for their service and sacrifice. Every Blue Lodge in Pennsylvania has contributed. The leadership of Chapter, Council, Commandery and Scottish Rite is also encouraging their respective bodies to be regular contributors for our troops. My request here is simple: continue your kind generosity. Let us, as Pennsylvania Masons, keep telling these heroes, “thank you.”

By the time this edition of The Pennsylvania Freemason magazine arrives in your home, the exterior restoration effort on our Grand Lodge building will be just about complete. This is being accomplished on schedule and within budget. J.J. DeLuca, the general contractor overseeing this project, has brought together the craftsmen of this generation to restore what the artisans and craftsmen gave to us over 135 years ago. No other Masonic building in the world can match what is yours in Philadelphia. You owe it to yourself to visit your Grand Lodge and to see the restored elegance of this building. The building is genuinely magnificent. Join your brethren on Dec. 6, 2008, at the Quarterly Communication and see for yourself. You will truly be impressed.

Sincerely & fraternally,

R.W. Grand Master
The Change for the Troops program has gained extensive exposure and support from top military and state governmental leaders, as well as media coverage. Donations to the program from brethren, lodges and other Masonic groups have now exceeded $105,000.00, allowing the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania to provide international calling cards to thousands of men and women departing to serve in war zones overseas.

Bro. Stephen Gardner, R.W. Grand Master, and members of the Grand Lodge, along with brothers from Brotherhood Lodge No. 126, Philadelphia, were invited to the send-off ceremony for elements of the 111th Fighter Wing, Pennsylvania Air National Guard, departing from Willow Grove Reserve Station on July 27 for Afghanistan. The private event was mainly for families of the troops, so it was quite an honor for some of our Masonic family to be asked to attend.

On behalf of Pennsylvania Freemasons, Grand Master Gardner presented two hundred 300-minute calling cards to 111th Fighter Wing Commander Col. Paul W. Comtois to provide to the departing officers and airmen.

Prior to the send-off ceremonies, Bro. and Col. [Ret.] Harris Brooks arranged for Col. Comtois to provide Grand Master Gardner and the Grand Lodge officers a private tour of the A-10 fighter plane, as well as a briefing on the transition of the station's mission to serve as a homeland defense and national security installation. He also introduced Grand Master Gardner to Major General Jessica Wright, the Adjutant General for the Pennsylvania National Guard, and Major General Stephen Sischo, Commander of the Air National Guard in Pennsylvania and Deputy Adjutant General, who were honored that the Grand Master was in attendance. They were already familiar with the Change for Troops program from previous calling card presentations, and even knew the value of the gifts. They were impressed by and grateful for all that Pennsylvania Freemasons are doing for Pennsylvania service people departing for the war zone.

Bro. Brooks also introduced Grand Master Gardner to Congresswoman Allyson Schwartz, who represents Pennsylvania’s 13th District, and Brendan Flynn, Director for Military and Veterans Affairs for Congressman Patrick J. Murphy, who serves Pennsylvania’s 8th District. They, too, expressed their appreciation for the dedication and support of Pennsylvania Masons. “I am so pleased that the Masons across Pennsylvania and here in my district are lending their efforts to support our men and women serving in the armed forces overseas,” Rep. Schwartz said. “It is critical that those of us at home keep those who have deployed in our thoughts and prayers, but it is even more critical that we take that extra step, as the Masons have done, to aid them and their families in this difficult time.”

“Everyone… the troops, families, military leadership and even legislators have been unbelievably appreciative of what we’re doing,” Bro. Brooks said. As a token of appreciation for Pennsylvania Freemasonry’s support, Col. Comtois presented Grand Master Gardner with a polished chrome bullet from the A-10 aircraft. On Nov. 10, during Brotherhood Lodge No. 126’s meeting in the

The Pennsylvania Freemason
Masonic Temple, the senior leadership from the Willow Grove Reserve Station will once again present Grand Master Gardner with the bullet, framed and made into a special plaque for display at the Grand Lodge, as well as an American flag that was flown over the 111th Fighter Wing’s headquarters in Afghanistan on behalf of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania.

Grand Master Gardner presented his “Earn it Again” medallion and a Benjamin Franklin statue to Col. Comtois as Wing Commander of the 111th Fighter Wing and to Major General Sischo as Commander of the Air National Guard in Pennsylvania, on behalf of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania.

Jean Moretti, Wing Family Program Coordinator for the 111th Fighter Wing of the Pennsylvania Air National Guard unit based in Willow Grove, said, “Our military members appreciate the thought and effort that goes into these generous donations... We are blessed to have the support and commitment of the Pennsylvania Freemasons to our Unit.”

Brethren,

In January 2009, a 4,000-member stryker brigade will be departing from Pennsylvania for the war zone. We have been told repeatedly that the morale of the troops is much higher because of our efforts to keep them connected with their loved ones at home. Your generosity has been overwhelming, and I am extremely proud of your support of the Change for the Troops program. When the collection bucket passes through your lodge this fall, please remember the troops who will be leaving their families after the holidays to pay the price for our freedom. My request here is simple. Please continue your kind generosity. Let us as Pennsylvania Masons keep telling our heroes, “thank you.”

- Stephen Gardner, R.W. Grand Master
It is with deep sadness that the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania announces the loss of one of its distinguished members, John Linville McCain, R.W.P.G.M. Bro. McCain passed away Sept. 17, 2008.

FROM THE NORTHEAST CORNER

An occasional periodical on Masonic Knowledge published by the Pennsylvania Lodge of Research

When the Secretary of the lodge stands to read the Minutes from the previous meeting, he begins by giving the date of that meeting, which may be, for example, June 8, 2008, A.L. 6008. Have you ever wondered why the “6008”? What’s the significance of the double date? And what is “A.L.”?

Centuries ago, scholars tried to date the beginning of the world. These scholars researched the Old Testament to determine, with the knowledge they had at that time, just when our world was created. One of the foremost scholars in this field was an Anglican Archbishop by the name of James Ussher (1581-1656), who was Archbishop of Armagh, in Ireland, and Primate of all of Ireland, which was still under English rule. Archbishop Ussher, in his scholarly work, “Annals of the Old Testament” (Annales Veteris Testamenti), determined that Creation began on the night preceding Oct. 23, 4004, B.C. (Julian Calendar), which corresponds to the Gregorian calendar (our present usage) of Sept. 21, 4000, B.C.E. (Before the Common or Christian Era)

Masonry, devoted to “enlightening” its members, places great value on light, symbolized by an initiate being brought “out of darkness into true Masonic light.” The first act of Creation was light, as we are told in Genesis 1:3: “And God said, ‘Let there be light,’ and there was light.” Since Freemasonry links its origins “from time immortal,” the Blue Lodge represents the beginning of light, and so symbolically dates itself, using Bishop Ussher’s chronology, from the beginning of Creation. Therefore, modern-day Freemasonry uses this dating, adding 4,000 years to the present date. The “A.L.” is Latin for Anno Lux, meaning “in the year of Light.”

Other Masonic groups within the Masonic family use this same method to date their own origins. Our modern Knights Templar date their origin from the founding of the original Order of Knights Templar, which was founded in 1118 A.D. Hence, the Record (Minutes) of a Commandery of Knights Templar would be dated, for example, June 8, 2008, A.O. 890, or the 890th year of the Order.

So the next time you are in your lodge, and hear the Secretary begin reading the Minutes, giving the “double date,” you now know why it is done that way. It is a reminder, both of our symbolic origins as a fraternity, and your own journey “from darkness to true Masonic light.”

We, as Masons, have each pledged to pursue Masonic knowledge. The Pennsylvania Lodge of Research stands as a fountain of Masonic knowledge to all who would attend. Any Pennsylvania Freemason, in good standing, may join the Pennsylvania Lodge of Research, and any Freemason, in good standing, may attend any of its meetings. COUNCIL OF DELIBERATION

Four top Masonic leaders met and took part in the 139th annual Pennsylvania Council of Deliberation, held July 12, 2008, in the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center.

Gentlemen:

I cannot express the absolute delight I experienced in the August “Freemason” and the note from Patrick Finney, LCDR, USN, thanking us for a phone calling card through the Change for the Troops program. You see, Pat and I have worked together for several years, and I have been in touch with him and his family throughout his deployment, followed his support to our country through his Web page, but had no idea he would receive a card. It reached home on a personal level that my contributions, and the efforts of all the Masons, are seen on such a personal scale when least expected.

Thanks to all who continue to contribute, and thanks to Pat for his service to our country and the sacrifices he and his wife, Mary Kate, and the family are making. We look forward to Pat’s safe return later this year.

Ronald R. Bellamy
Cassia Mt. Horeb Lodge No. 273, Ardmore

The Pennsylvania Freemason
Benjamin Franklin joined the Masonic fraternity at the age of 25 and spent most of his life establishing the foundations of our country: diplomatic policies, constitutional laws, many inventions we still use today and the concepts of a library and volunteer fire company. He was also a writer and philosopher as well as a benevolent human being.

It is easy to understand why such a man could influence members of the oldest lodge in Pennsylvania, Lodge No. 2 in Philadelphia, more than 275 years later.

“We like to look back to the charity of our founding fathers – at a time before we were a nation – and Benjamin Franklin, who at age 25, took money out of his own pocket to give to others,” Bro. Lawrence Hubert, Jr., W.M., Lodge No. 2, said. “Ben Franklin found a way. We always try to find ways to help the community. We want to contribute to making the world a better place and leave a good legacy.”

Among the lodge's charitable initiatives, which benefit its members and the community at large, are supporting the Masonic Temple in Philadelphia and the Masonic Villages, participating in the Charity Mini Grand Prix to benefit the Masonic Children's Home, working with appendant Masonic organizations and youth groups and volunteering with local Adopt-a-School and drug awareness programs.

Lodge No. 2, with 212 members, was one of several contributors to the restoration of a Steinway grand piano at the Masonic Village at Lafayette Hill (see story on p. 33). With several of their members residing at the Masonic Village, it was a great way to directly support their fellow brothers and the Masonic Charities.

“Our goal is to make specific initiatives and use our philanthropy well,” Bro. Hubert said. “By creating many different efforts, our members enthusiastically find ways to become active in whatever way they're capable. We have a strong motivation to be part of the fraternity's foundation of making good men better.”
GRAND MASTER’S 2008 CHARITY GOLF TOURNAMENT RESULTS

CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA

The central golf tournament was held at the Irem Shriners Country Club on Sept. 16, with 72 golfers hitting the links. The format was “Captain and his Crew.”

Brothers Rich Belmont, Recorder and Past Potentate of Irem Shrine, and Ronald A. Augst, Sr., R.W.P.G.M., co-chaired the event, which raised more than $10,962 for the Masonic Charities. Fifty percent of the proceeds will benefit the Masonic Children’s Home and the other 50 percent will support the Masonic Temple restoration.

The golfers received a gift bag including a leather pouch for golf balls and tees, a sleeve of golf balls, an Irem Country Club ball marker, a buffet lunch, beverages and snacks during and after play and a huge dinner highlighted by a carving station of succulent prime rib.

EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA

The eastern golf tournament was held on Sept. 29 at LuLu Country Club in North Hills. Over 90 golfers participated in the fun event featuring a full day of golf, music, cocktails, dinner and a silent auction. Early tabulations indicate that the net proceeds will be in excess of $25,000 to benefit special projects at the Masonic Villages at Lafayette Hill and Warminster.

Many thanks to Tournament Committee members Bro. Dale H. Fera, Sr., Bro. William J. Greet, Bro. Chris Reynolds, Joyce F. Michelfelder and Carol Wolfinger, who worked hard to make the event a success. More than a dozen residents from the Masonic Village at Lafayette Hill also volunteered their time to assist with the set-up of the auction, act as “hole monitors” and help to stuff the goodie bags.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

The western golf tournament, held Sept. 22 at the Sewickley Heights Golf Club, hosted a generous group of golfers and an enthusiastic assembly of Masonic Village at Sewickley retirement living resident volunteers.

The day’s events began with registration, and then a shot gun start for the golfers at 11:30 am. After completing their round of golf, the men and women enjoyed hors d’oeuvres and dinner in the ballroom. This year’s tournament committee, chaired by Bro. Robert F. Dunkle, D.D.G.M., coordinated a Chinese auction, silent auction and a reverse club auction which added to the competitive fun of the day’s events. Golf committee members also included Bros. Raymond T. Dietz, D.D.G.M.; Norman E. Flaherty, P.D.D.G.M.; William J. Magnotti, D.D.G.M.; William Roberts, P.D.D.G.M.; Paul J. Roup, D.D.G.M.; and Samuel W. Spanos. Jane Binley provided staff support for the event.

Due to the overwhelming support of sponsors, golfers and volunteers, this year’s proceeds of over $7,000 will benefit the Masonic Village at Sewickley’s Valley Care Masonic Center.
At the beginning of the year, the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania kicked off a program, appropriately called “Call ‘Em All,” which allows lodge leaders to record messages and send them to every brother’s phone number in their databases through an auto-dialer service. While lodges do not have to use the program, those that adopted this service sponsored by the Grand Lodge have given it rave reviews.

Lodges use the service to remind brothers about just about anything — lodge meetings, special events, deadlines for dues, special needs and funeral services. Call ‘Em All makes informing brothers easy, ensures brothers all receive the correct messages and makes it possible to reach everyone in just a few minutes. “This offered us a one-stop-shop to reach the masses,” District Deputy Grand Master Ed Stein, 7th Masonic District, said.

“It works great. I think it’s one of the best programs initiated by a Grand Master in a long time,” District Deputy Grand Master Barry Wheeler, 31st Masonic District, said. He’s also impressed with how easy it is to send a message to everyone. Before, he had to call 10 brothers, who would each call several brothers, and so on until everyone received the message. The old message system took a lot of time and provided much room for human error. “Now, zingo! It just takes one person,” Bro. Wheeler emphasized, “It’s really, really simple.”

Technology Concerns

“For me, I have to be honest with you that it was easy to use the system,” Bro. Stein said. “Everyone I know is on board with the program as a means for opening dialogue and communication within the lodges.”

While the new Call ‘Em All program has raised technological concerns amongst some brothers, the overwhelming majority find that they can operate the system easily, especially if someone takes the time to demonstrate how it works.

Bro. Wheeler worked with the Worshipful Masters in the 31st Masonic District to help them through the new program. “I tried it first and then went to the other lodges. I told them, ‘Listen, it’s not hard; you don’t have to be a rocket scientist,’” he said, to ease any apprehension.

Impressively Results

The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania had high hopes for Call ‘Em All, and it has lived up to R.W. Grand Master Stephen Gardner’s expectations.

Bro. Stein has seen the Call ‘Em All program at work in the lodges in his district. He’s noticed that the program has helped to bring more people to lodge events such as picnics or ladies’ night. “Maybe one thing leads to another and a person attends a picnic and through seeing friends and the fraternal bond, it revitalizes his interest in the lodge,” Bro. Stein said.

Call ‘Em All also has a family aspect. “What you’re doing with the Call ‘Em All program is you’re getting a family involved,” Bro. Wheeler said. “The family can feel, ‘I’m part of that now — part of the Freemasonry family.’” The camaraderie formed among brothers is enhanced when family members also support and get involved in Freemasonry.

Call ‘Em All has also made the fraternity more informed. “The service was a wake-up call that the database wasn’t where it should be,” Bro. Stein said. When Worshipful Masters and Lodge Secretaries began entering phone numbers into the calling service, they started to realize that some of the information databases were not complete and updated. Call ‘Em All provided the incentive to update these databases so everyone has access to the most current information.

Continuing Trend

This powerful technology gives lodges the tools they need to reach out to brothers in unprecedented numbers. Call ‘Em All’s potential to grow the fraternity and share relevant information is limitless if lodges continue to adopt this program and use it regularly.

36TH MASONIC DISTRICT LODGES UNITE

According to District Deputy Grand Master of the 36th District, Bro. Ricky L. Swalm, the lodges of District 36 make it a habit to invite each other to their events, including degree work. All the lodges (Chester Lodge No. 236; George Bartram-Paul Sand Lodge No. 298, Media; Prospect Lodge No. 578, Prospect Park; Concord Lodge No. 625, Concordville; Penn Lodge No. 709, Concordville; Lansdowne Lodge No. 711; and Springfield-Hanby Lodge No. 767, Springfield) work well together, enhancing each member’s experience. Bro. Swalm keeps lodge officers up to date on events and happenings through a bi-monthly newsletter including inspirational messages encouraging brothers to engage each other in Masonic duties and activities. Two of the district’s recent outings included the following:

- On May 12, more than 150 brethren of Masonic District 36, along with their ladies and guests, honored members who have served in the ranks of the Masonic fraternity for 50 and 60 years. R.W. Grand Master Stephen Gardner and R.W. Junior Grand Warden Robert Bateman also attended the presentation and dinner, hosted by Bartram-Sand Lodge at the Springfield Masonic Temple.

- On June 16, members of the 36th Masonic District traveled by chartered bus to visit and attend the Stated Meeting of Abraham C. Treichler Lodge No. 682, Elizabethtown, as a tribute to members of District 36 lodges who now live at the Masonic Village. After a catered dinner, the Worshipful Masters and members of the 36th Masonic District were welcomed by Bro. Larry Ebersole, W.M., and the officers and members of Treichler Lodge.

According to Masonic protocol, Bro. Noble P. Johnson, District Deputy Grand Master for the 60th Masonic District, introduced Bro. Swalm, who in turn introduced the visiting Worshipful Masters of the 36th Masonic District including Bros. Paul Micun, Chester Lodge; James Standish, George Bartram-Paul Sand Lodge; William Seganti, Concord Lodge; Raymond Bryant, Penn Lodge; and Dean Spangler, Lansdowne Lodge.

During the Stated Meeting, Masonic Service Emblems were presented to two residents of the Masonic Village at Elizabethtown: Bro. Robert C. Tobias, George Bartram Paul Sand Lodge, (50 years) and Bro. John V. Dooley, Chester Lodge, (60 years). Bro. Edward T. Bryant, Chester Lodge, presented the Lewis Jewel to his son, Bro. Raymond Bryant, W.M., Penn Lodge.

Originally built in 1771 by the British, Fort Mifflin is the only Revolutionary War battlefield completely intact. It was used by the U.S. Army until 1952 during the Korean War.

In 1777, during the American Revolution, the British Navy attacked Fort Mifflin on Mud Island. Bro. and General George Washington ordered the garrison at Fort Mifflin to hold off the British Navy so the Continental Army could make its way to their winter encampment at Valley Forge.

The British surrounded the garrison of approximately 400 Continental soldiers on three sides, and pummeled the fort with more than 10,000 cannonballs, causing the garrison to evacuate and killing 150 Continental soldiers. The harsh weather prevented British General Howe from chasing them, allowing Bro. and General Washington and the Continental Army to regroup in Valley Forge until spring 1787. Bro. Washington wrote that the defense of the Delaware River was “of the utmost importance to America.”

Known as the “Valiant Defender of the Delaware,” Fort Mifflin was reconstructed in 1798 as a coastal defense. It served many purposes over the years, as a garrison in the War of 1812, a Confederate prison during the Civil War and as a munitions depot in World Wars I & II.

On Sept. 17, a Stated Meeting of Penn Lodge No. 709, Concordville, was held at Historic Fort Mifflin on the Delaware River, site of the oldest continuously used fort in the United States. The 220 brethren who were in attendance from 36 different lodges were honored with a visitation by Bro. Stephen Gardner, R.W. Grand Master. The fort was secured with the closing of the heavy wooden gate and the watchful eyes and ears of ‘Tylers upon the walls in each of the four cardinal points.

At 6 p.m., with a blast from a cannon and rap of the gavel, the first Masonic Meeting at Fort Mifflin was called to order. Grand Master Gardner performed the Flag ceremony accompanied by the NUR Colonials Fife & Drum Corp. Introductions were made while the Unity Gavel traveled from hand to hand.

Using the success of the Meeting in the Hills in Western Pennsylvania as inspiration, and the assistance from brethren of all seven lodges in District 36, the Meeting at the Fort was brought to fruition. It was conceived as a special project to inspire the brethren of our Masonic fraternity and unite them on one special and historic occasion. It is in this same spirit that the Unity Gavel and Box had been conceived.

It’s been less than a year since R.W. Grand Master Gardner announced to the membership the new Statewide Minimum Ritualistic Standard for Pennsylvania Masons. District Deputy Grand Masters had been informed a year prior to this initiative and many began working with their lodges immediately.

For some lodges, this “new” requirement wasn’t so new after all. “Our district welcomes the adoption of the statewide minimum ritualistic standards,” said Bro. William L. Kingsbury, District Deputy Grand Master for District C. “Ritualistic proficiency of lodge officers has been in the culture of District C for many years, long before my appointment as District Deputy. In most cases, our lodges have self-imposed even stricter requirements.”

Others, however, had quite a bit of work to do. According to Bro. William H. Brandt, Sr., District Deputy Grand Master for the 12th District, many Past Masters remained in their chairs because other brethren in their lodge had not learned the ritual. And while the initiative took off rather slowly, he now boasts that his district’s lodges have increased their qualifications by 75 percent. In fact, Bro. Brandt has implemented an even more stringent policy than the Grand Master’s, requiring that brethren know the degree in each chair before being elected to that post. The district has been fortunate that some new young men joining the fraternity have gotten involved and learned the work in order to advance in the chairs. “One-on-one instruction is the key,” he said.

Bro. Brandt admits that more than one brother has raised the question, “Why do I have to know this now?” His answer is simple. “If no one knows the work, there will be no work to learn and we’ll lose the fraternity. It’s what sets us apart. Without it, we could be like any other fraternal organization in the community, but we’re not just a fraternal organization — we’re Freemasons.”

As of the end of September, the Unity Box and Gavel had traveled more than 12,000 miles. Be sure not to miss YOUR turn to share this experience with your fellow brethren across the Commonwealth!

CONGRATULATIONS TO...

Bro. Thomas W. Jackson, R.W. Past Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, recently had an annual award sponsored in his name by the Valley of Rochester, A.A.S.R., at the College of Freemasonry on April 5. The Thomas Jackson Award is to be given to someone who has transformed the message of Freemasonry into an educational inspiration with a high impact on society at a state, regional or national level. On April 19, Bro. Jackson was presented the first-ever “The Order of Nat Granstein” award (shown on right) from the National Grand Lodge of Romania for continuous support and promotion of the interest of The National Grand Lodge of Romania within Universal Regular Freemasonry (shown right). On July 5, he received the first-ever “Decoration for Merit” (shown on left) for support of Russian Regular Freemasonry. Bro. Jackson holds Honorary Grand Rank in 23 World Grand Lodges and has received decorations from 26 Grand Lodges.

Bro. Warren A. Norris, Jr., P.M., H. Stanley Goodwin Lodge No. 648, Bethlehem, learned that his son, Bro. Warren A. Norris, III, now a member of Julian Feild Lodge No. 908, A.F. & A.M. Fort Worth, Texas, was going to become a Master Mason. Bro. Norris wanted to be present for that moment in his son’s Masonic life. Bro. Norris made arrangements to have a Lewis Jewel crafted, and on July 6, flew to Fort Worth for the occasion. After the lodge conferred the degree, Bro. Norris was called upon to give the jewel to his son.

UNIONTOWN MASONs ON PARADE

In hopes of raising interest in Freemasonry through participation in Uniontown’s first May Day Parade, Bro. Darren M. DeCarlo, Chairman, Fayette Lodge No. 228, Uniontown, enlisted the support of his lodge’s Worshipful Master, John I. Whitlatch, and Brothers Andrew D. Ferguson, III, P.M., W.M., and Richard D. Smith, P.M., Laurel Lodge No. 651, Uniontown. Barry L. Wheeler, District Deputy Grand Master for District 31, received permission from R.W. Grand Master Stephen Gardner for the brethren to wear Masonic attire and regalia in the parade.
Officers and members of Hiram Lodge No. 81, Philadelphia; Widener-Apollo-Kensington Lodge No. 211, Philadelphia; and Concordia Lodge No. 67, Jenkintown, attended the Annual Banquet of Prince Hall's Composite Lodge No. 121 on June 20 and the Conferral of the Third Degree on June 21. A relationship of reciprocal visits has developed over the years between Composite Lodge and Hiram Lodge, with the recent inclusions of Widener-Apollo-Kensington Lodge, Concordia Lodge and Friendship-Williams Lodge No. 400, Jenkintown.

While many similarities exist between the ritual of the Prince Hall Lodge and the Blue Lodge, differences are notable. The opening and closing of a Prince Hall Lodge ritual includes music and singing, and throughout the degree work, much emotion is exuded.

“No Blue Lodge Mason should miss the opportunity to witness the Conferral of the Third Degree by a Prince Hall Lodge to further instill the oath and obligation we have taken in front of the altar,” Bro. Steven Ralston, W.M., Hiram Lodge No. 81, said. “I encourage all Masons to take advantage of these occasions because the most apparent attribute will be the overwhelmingly warm atmosphere of fraternity and brotherhood among all Masons.”

On March 17, for the first time, members of Newtown Lodge No. 427, Woodside, attended a meeting of Star in the East Lodge No. 55, Prince Hall Affiliation, Philadelphia. Bro. Edward O. Weisser, R.W.P.G.M.M., P.M., W.M., has been reaching out to other lodges as one fraternal organization to another and has several visits on the calendar for this year. Star in the East Lodge conducted regular business at the meeting and provided a history of Prince Hall Lodges for the Blue Lodge members. Newtown Lodge has reciprocated with an offer for Star in the East Lodge to attend one of its lodge meetings.
FAMILY PICNIC

Knobels’ Amusement Resort was the setting for the first family picnic of District 11. All 240+ attendees, consisting of brethren and families, enjoyed the day. Each lodge took a part in providing all the picnic foods and related items. Following the noon meal, all children under the age of 18 were provided a book of tickets for all the rides available throughout the park. Once again, the fellowship and interaction proved that through the Family of Freemasonry, strangers are friends who haven’t yet met.

FRATERNAL ARCHWAY
HONORS CANCER SURVIVORS

During this year’s Relay for Life in Punxsutawney, Bro. Harry G. Bodenhorn, P.M., Junior Warden, John W. Jenks Lodge No. 534, West Grove, proudly escorted 12-year-old Alexa Bleu Amundson, a cancer survivor, under the archway of swords formed by members of the local Knights of Columbus chapter and John W. Jenks Lodge. When the Knights of Columbus asked the Masons for assistance forming the archway last year, the Masons gladly stepped forward to help. Many of the brethren also walked in the Relay for Life, which raised an estimated $70,000 this year.

Cooperation between the Knights and Masons during the past two years at the Relay for Life continues to reinforce the work of the fraternities within the Punxsutawney community.

SERVING AS SOLDIERS AND BROTHERS

On March 12, Bro. Tony L. Chapman, Warren Lodge No. 240, Montrose, was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason. Bro. Chapman, who is serving in the U.S. Army, was recently promoted to Sergeant First Class. Immediately after receiving his third degree, he presented Warren Lodge No. 240 with a new petition for Joseph Robert Minzak, IV, a member of the Pennsylvania National Guard. Bro. Minzak received his third degree on Aug. 13. Conferring Bro. Chapman’s degree was Bro. Fred B. Baker, II, P.M., a Vietnam veteran and former Chief Warrant Officer.

TEN YEARS OF LITTLE LEAGUE SUPPORT

Three members of Lodge No. 45, Pittsburgh, presented a check to the Deer Lakes Little League in May. This is the tenth consecutive year that Bro. Al “Pappy” Gurtner has presented a monetary gift on behalf of the lodge.

On July 15, Good Samaritan Lodge No. 336, Gettysburg, officially presented the Ranch Trail Commons flagpole and American flag to Carroll Valley’s Mayor and Council.

“When we were finishing the first stage of the park project, we realized we had not included a flagpole in the project, so I asked Gettysburg’s Masonic lodge for help,” said Police Chief Richard L. Hileman, George Washington Lodge No. 143, Chambersburg.

Good Samaritan Lodge members donated $1,000 for the flagpole and placed it in the park next to the parking area.

“After looking at the site, it was clear the flagpole was going to need some landscaping, too,” Bro. Victor J. Reale, Secretary of Good Samaritan Lodge, said. The Masons signed on J.C. Services, a landscaping design and installation firm, which donated its landscaping services and all the materials, a value of around $700, to the project.

“The flag obviously has so much meaning for all of us. I am very thankful to the Masons for making sure we had a flag flying over the new park, symbolizing the freedom we all enjoy,” Mayor Ron Harris said.

Good Samaritan Lodge has been collaborating with Carroll Valley for several years. In fact, the Gettysburg Masons were back in Carroll Valley on Aug. 5, for National Night Out, a national crime and drug prevention event. The lodge has worked with the police department for the past three years to conduct a Masonic CHIP program. “Their Child ID program has been a core program for Carroll Valley National Night Out since its inception,” Chief Hileman said. “It’s a terrific program, and they are great to work with.”

In four years, the program has processed more than 200 children for free. If an abduction situation arises, the police will have a photograph, video with voice, fingerprints and DNA for each child. “It’s a program that definitely enhances the search process in finding a child,” Bro. Reale said.

Good Samaritan Lodge certainly lives up to its name and the traditions of Freemasonry!

On April 18, at the 49th Masonic District’s 27th Annual Retiring Masters Dinner, Bro. Stephen Gardner, R.W. Grand Master, received a valuable gift on behalf of the Grand Lodge.

After Grand Master Gardner’s remarks, Bro. Jeff Biddle, District Deputy Grand Master for District 49, introduced his special guests, Mr. Donald Squibb and his wife, Patricia. Mr. Squibb is not a brother; however, his late father, Bro. Alvah M. Squibb, received the 33rd. Mr. Squibb presented his father’s “Ahiman Rezon,” a first edition of the Constitution of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania which was published in 1783. The book is relatively rare, and its estimated value is between $1,000-$2,000.

At the celebration, attended by 110 people, each Past Master from 2007 was honored individually and received a plaque from Grand Master Gardner.

On June 23, Lodge Ad Lucem No. 812, Pennsylvania’s newest Traditional Observance Lodge, was pleased to introduce Bro. Eric M. Waggoner into its ranks as an Entered Apprentice Mason.

Traditional Observance Lodges stress Masonic Formation as a process of lifelong learning and moral development as part of candidate education. Bro. Waggoner will not only be required to commit a portion of his work to memory, but also to present a paper on some aspect of the symbolism or ritual of each degree prior to advancement.

He will be assigned mentors to aid in his research and answer any questions he may have along the way.

Bro. Waggoner indicated that what he has seen and learned so far has exceeded all expectations, and he is excited to continue his journey.

The Hiram’s Scottish Riders, a motorcycle club within the Scottish Rite Valley of Reading, raised funds this summer for the 32˚ Masonic Learning Centers. Grand Master Gardner joined them for the last leg of the ride.

Bro. Victor Frederick, Club President, worked with Sovereign Grand Commander of the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction John W. McNaughton to build relations within the various valleys so the ride would be a success.

Bro. Frederick’s goal for next year’s ride is to raise $1 million for the learning centers.

RINGING IN THE SEASON OF GIVING

Members of two Masonic lodges, Lodge No. 106, Williamsport, and Henry M. Phillips Lodge No. 337, Monongahela, have spent many cold hours standing in front of local retail stores to collect the change of passers-by to benefit the Salvation Army.

Donations provide dinners, clothing, toys, basic necessities and seasonal aid for families in need, shut-ins in hospitals and nursing homes and shelters. The lodges’ participation exposes the local community to the good work of the Masons.

For the sixth year, members of Henry M. Phillips Lodge will ring the kettle bell. Despite the cold temperatures, the brethren enjoy greeting the passing neighbors and inviting the children to ring the bell. “Their warm smiles and grins make you forget the cold,” Bro. Barry Wheeler, District Deputy Grand Master of District 31, who participated last year, said.

Standing beside a red kettle with a sign that reads “Volunteer Bell Ringers - Masons Care - Lodge 106,” more than two dozen members of the lodge have worked a two-hour shift (or more) for the past 12 years. This year will mark their 13th, over which time the lodge has raised more than $30,000.

“The volunteers typically state that they enjoy ringing the bell – it feels good in a way that writing a contribution check can’t touch,” said Gary V. Hoover, P.M., Chairman of the Lodge 106 Charity Committee, which sets up shift schedules and recruits volunteers.

To encourage other lodges in their district, as well as Prince Hall lodges, to participate, they purchased a specially-inscribed Lodge 106 Charity Bell which is given to the lodge that raises the most money for the Salvation Army each year.

Bro. Bill Hollick, P.M., who typically volunteers for more than one shift each year, represents Lodge No. 106.

The Pennsylvania Freemason
ACHIEVING GREATNESS, OLYMPIC STYLE

This summer was the first time Bro. Bob “Bart” Bartholomew watched the U.S. Weight lifting Team compete in the Olympics since 1968 — when he, himself, was a contender.

Bro. Bartholomew recalls marching through the crowd at the Opening Ceremony in Mexico City and looking up to see the President of Mexico proudly sitting with his wife as the balloons floated through the air. “I swear, the goose bumps on you and the honor of representing the United States — that was the greatest moment of the Olympics for me,” Bro. Bartholomew said.

Bro. Bartholomew’s life didn’t always have the dream-like quality of an Olympic ceremony. “Growing up as a young boy, Bob faced many of the hardships we hear and read about in life,” according to Gus Kappes, Bro. Bartholomew’s brother-in-law. “As the great German philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche suggests, ‘That which doesn’t defeat you can only serve to make you stronger.’”

Bro. Bartholomew was born in Allentown, Pa., to Hilda Bartholomew. “My father was one of those absent-type fathers,” Bro. Bartholomew said. His mother raised the children largely by herself, and as the second oldest of seven children, Bro. Bartholomew became a father figure for his younger siblings. While trying to be an exemplary older brother, he attended night school to become a welder.

When some of his buddies started bodybuilding, Bro. Bartholomew joined them. He participated and placed in many Mr. Pennsylvania, Mr. America and Mr. American Physique competitions, but the subjective judging based on looks, personality and physique bothered him. There was little objectivity.

He joined a weight lifting team at the YMCA and began to train with some friends. He liked weight lifting because, “When you lift a weight, you’re just lifting and no one’s picking you,” Bro. Bartholomew said. Instead of lifting to tone his physique, he trained for power and technique. Soon, Bro. Bartholomew’s impressive strength earned him a spot on the York Barbell Club team. “Its team was all the best lifters in the area,” Bro. Bartholomew explained. He gives credit to the club’s owner, Bob Huffman. “…without him, weight lifting would have been nothing in the United States.”

Throughout the 1960s, Bro. Bartholomew won many competitions including the State competition at least eight times and the Eastern Coast competition about half a dozen times. He also placed first in the Nationals in 1966 and around the same time won the North American Championship.

After years of training six days a week for two or more hours each day after a full day of welding, Bro. Bartholomew made the U.S. Olympic weight lifting team. However, the accomplishment of a lifetime came with a cost. “I don’t know if I’d do it again. It cost a lot of money and relationships,” Bro. Bartholomew said. At 32 years old, he was an older competitor in the Olympics and already had a wife and son. With the pressures of weight lifting and the impending Olympics, his marriage did not last. Bro. Bartholomew also did not have a sponsor, so his expenses came out of his own pocket.

Referencing the current Olympics where the coaches wipe sweat off players and hug team members after exceptional performances, Bro. Bartholomew said, “I didn’t have any of that stuff. Nobody had an individual coach there. The U.S. team had one coach and a trainer who was always out and about doing something, I hardly saw him.” So what he learned, he learned on his own.

At the Olympics, Bro. Bartholomew, at 198 lbs., competed as a middle heavyweight in three lifts: the press, snatch, and clean and jerk. In the press, discontinued after the ’68 Olympics, the athlete lifted the weight from the floor to the shoulders in one movement. When the referee clapped, he shot the weight above his head. In the snatch, a wide grip lift, the athlete grabbed the weight and lifted it above his head in one swift motion. For the clean and jerk, the athlete starts with the “clean,” lifting the weight from the ground to the neck and finishes with the “jerk,” thrusting the bar above the head.

During the Olympic tryouts, amid weight lifters from 32 other nations, Bro. Bartholomew placed 2nd with his best total score ever. “It seemed like I peaked too early. If I would have lifted in the Olympics like I did in the tryouts, I would have at least placed 4th or 5th,” he said. Instead, Bro. Bartholomew represented the United States with a very respectable 9th place finish.

“After the Olympics, it was like a big weight was lifted off my back,” Bro. Bartholomew said. “I never went to another meet again. I never lifted another weight. I was burned out.”

Bro. Bartholomew continued to work as a welder at Steamfitters Local 420, where he first learned to weld. He later moved to the Poconos where he had several friends who were Masons, and in 1993 became a Master Mason himself. “For me, it changed my life. It’s the greatest fraternity or organization to become a part of. It’s a great influence,” he said. After a move home to Catasauqua, Bro. Bartholomew picked up a dual membership in Porter Lodge No. 284 where he served as Worshipful Master in 2006. “Just that I might be Worshipful Master of a lodge is such a great honor,” Bro. Bartholomew said. As for his Masonic brother from the same lodge, Stephen Gardner, R.W. Grand Master, “I look up to him because it takes one heck of a man to do what [Grand Masters] do for two years,” Bro. Bartholomew said.

Yet, Bro. Bartholomew is quite a role model himself.

For 40 years, he held an American Red Cross Lifeguard Certification and gave back to the community by life guarding at the Allentown YMCA and Catasauqua Municipal swimming pools. He wakes up early four mornings a week and heads to the Catasauqua YMCA for light exercises on the treadmill. “I think exercising is one of the best things for you,” he said. For the rest of his day, Bro. Bartholomew spends as much time as possible with his son, Michael, and two grandchildren, Michael Jr. and Dillon.

150TH ANNIVERSARIES

In 1858, Pennsylvania native President Bro. James Buchanan and Vice President Bro. John C. Breckinridge led the United States. After the November election, Bro. William Fisher Packer was named Governor of Pennsylvania. This year saw the advancement of many inventions, including the ornamented soda fountain and the first shoe manufacturing machine. Charles Darwin and Alfred Wallace announced their theory of evolution.

Cumberland Valley Lodge No. 315, Shippensburg

Through the recommendation of Orrstown Lodge No. 262, Cumberland Valley Lodge No. 315 was constituted on Feb. 18, 1858. It was formed after several members of the fraternity decided not to revive Silensia Lodge No. 198. Member Jeffrey W. Coy, P.M., serves as R.W. Grand Treasurer and member Thomas W. Jackson is R.W. Past Grand Secretary.

Lodge members held a 150th anniversary banquet on Sept. 5, including keynote speaker, Bro. Stephen Gardner, R.W. Grand Master. A commemorative afghan was given to each couple.

Shippensburg was named for Edward Shippen, who founded and laid out the town on land obtained in a patent from the heirs of William Penn in 1730. Shippen served as Mayor of Philadelphia in 1744 and was one of the founders of the College of New Jersey (now Princeton University) and the Pennsylvania Hospital. Shippensburg was incorporated as a borough in 1819 and was home to furniture factories, engine and pump works and other industries. The fertile soil and good water supply of the county led to prosperous farms and early industrial power.

Myrtle Lodge No. 316, Franklin

Through the recommendations of Lodge No. 234, Meadville, Myrtle Lodge No. 316 was constituted on Feb. 22, 1858. It was formed after several members of the fraternity decided not to revive Silensia Lodge No. 198. Member Jeffrey W. Coy, P.M., serves as R.W. Grand Treasurer and member Thomas W. Jackson is R.W. Past Grand Secretary.

Lodge members held a 150th anniversary banquet on Sept. 5, including keynote speaker, Bro. Stephen Gardner, R.W. Grand Master. A commemorative afghan was given to each couple.

Myrtle Lodge No. 316, Franklin

Through the recommendations of Lodge No. 234, Meadville, Myrtle Lodge No. 316 was constituted on Feb. 22, 1858. President and Bro. George Washington’s 126th birthday. The name Myrtle may have been chosen in commemoration of the legend that Adam took a sprig of myrtle on his way out of the Garden of Eden.

On Feb. 22, lodge members gathered for a banquet with entertainment to commemorate their anniversary. On August 15, members participated in vespers services and a walking parade through a local park, followed by Masonic veteran’s “A Tribute to America.” The following day, Grand Master Gardner visited the lodge, and the day included an open house, Masonic parade, a program at a local park and fireworks.

Venango County was formed in 1800 in northwestern Pennsylvania, home to many Native Americans. Much of western Pennsylvania was in the center of the conflict between the French and the English and in 1749, the French built a fort at the site despite warnings from young Bro. George Washington. After the French fled, in 1787, the Americans constructed Fort Franklin, named for Bro. Benjamin Franklin. Lumbering, farming and iron furnaces were the main industries in the area, until oil was discovered and speculators and entrepreneurs worldwide rushed to the town.

Ossea Lodge No. 317, Wellsboro

Through recommendations from Friendship Lodge No. 247, Ossea Lodge No. 317 was constituted on Feb. 24, 1858. Well-known members of the lodge include Bro. George William Alexis Stone, Governor of Pennsylvania (1899-1903); Henry W. Williams, Supreme Court Justice and Grand Master for just 29 days, due to his death; and George Linton, L.t. Col. in the U.S. Army during World War II.

In 1976, the home of Ossea Lodge since 1919 was destroyed in a fire. The Lodge Warrant was salvaged and restored as closely as possible to its original condition. In 1978, the cornerstone was laid for the new temple.

Bedford Lodge No. 320, Bedford

Through recommendations of Lodge No. 282, Hollidaysburg, Bedford Lodge No. 320 was constituted on May 27, 1858. The first lodge in Bedford, No. 48, was warranted in 1789 but went dark in 1806. Bedford-Bath Lodge No. 137, warranted in 1813, last paid dues in April 1817. Records of these early lodges were burned in the Chestnut Street Hall (Grand Lodge) fire of 1819.

Lodge members held their anniversary banquet on Sept. 7 at the local Bedford Springs Resort, the same location of their 100th anniversary celebration. Grand Master Gardner attended the dinner, and 50-Year Service Awards were presented.

The town of Bedford was incorporated as a borough in 1795. An important military post during the French and Indian War, the area’s namesake comes from 1759, when “the fort at Raystown” was re-named Fort Bedford in honor of John Russell, the fourth Duke of Bedford.

Bedford County, created in 1771, became one of the richest iron counties in the state, while agriculture, timber lands and wool and planing mills also flourished. President and Bro. James Buchanan spent summers here while serving as President and received the first trans-Atlantic telegram from England’s Queen Victoria.

West Chester Lodge No. 322, West Chester

West Chester Lodge No. 322 was constituted on July 20, 1858. Members of the lodge celebrated their anniversary with a banquet held on Oct. 18. Grand Master Gardner was in attendance.

Chester County was one of the first three original counties William Penn designated, named for the city in England where one of his closest friends was born. The diverse geology of the region includes copper, lead, iron, kaolin, corundum and sand, and led to the rise of quarrying as the area’s major industry. The abundance of streams made agriculture a mainstay. Downtown West Chester has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Barger Lodge No. 325, Stroudsburg

Barger Lodge No. 325 was constituted on Oct. 6, 1858. Its anniversary banquet was held on Oct. 5 with a special meeting on Oct. 7 to receive Grand Master Gardner.

Stroudsburg was named after the owner of about 4,000 acres in the area, Revolutionary Col. Jacob Stroud. It was incorporated as a borough in 1815. It is the seat of Monroe County, which was formed in 1836 and named for President and Bro. James Monroe, (1817-1825). The railroad came to the country in 1856, increasing commerce and tourism. Industries include Christmas trees, berries, nuts, maple syrup, mineral water, beer and milk. The Pocono Mountains and Pocono Raceway make this area a popular recreation and vacation destination.

Lehigh Lodge No. 326, Macungie

Through the recommendation of Lodge No. 284 in Catasauqua, Lehigh Lodge No. 326 was constituted on Nov. 26, 1858. Lodge members celebrated their 150th anniversary with a banquet in April. Grand Master Gardner visited, bringing with him the Unity Gavel and Box.

Trexlertown, the home of Lehigh Lodge No. 326, is considered to be the oldest village in Lehigh County, part of Macungie Township. It was named for the Trexler family, although there is dispute as to whether it was to honor John, Peter or Jeremiah Trexler.

Lehigh County was bountiful in soil and springs and creeks used to power a few hundred mills. It was also a producer of iron and steel and the area’s zinc, slate, limestone and sandstone provided much of the industry.

Union Lodge No. 324, Mifflintown

Through the recommendation of Lodge No. 203, Lewistown, Union Lodge No. 324 was constituted on Dec. 2, 1858. Warranted in 1796, the first lodge in Mifflin County (now Juniata) was Lodge No. 68 and was held in Mifflin (now Mifflintown). The second lodge was established in 1825 and named Jackson Lodge. It was removed to Lewistown, where it is the current Lewistown Lodge No. 203.

A lodge anniversary banquet was held on Sept. 13. Grand Master Gardner presented members with 50-Year Service Awards and received the lodge’s donations for his charities.

Mifflintown was named in honor of Governor Thomas Mifflin and incorporated as a borough in 1833. Empire Kosher Poultry, the nation’s largest processor of kosher poultry, calls Mifflintown home. In 1870, one-half of Mifflintown was destroyed by a fire, including...

Museum Celebrates Centennial

by Glenys A. Waldman, Ph.D., Senior Librarian

In 1904, the Library Committee proudly announced the construction of the steel book stacks, housing 25,000 books in the “fire-proof rooms” to the north of the Reading-Room, thus making room for museum cases, yet leaving half the room for reading. As of the writing of the 1905 Proceedings, the Committee was happy with the new “Smoking and Conversation Room.” The museum cases, once “properly illuminated with electric light” satisfied the immediate need for “proper display of the many hundreds of objects of Masonic interest,” but they only partially fulfilled the need. Soon thereafter, space once again became a problem.

In 1907, the Committee, of which Bro. John Wanamaker had become chair in 1906, hoped “…that the Temple Committee will allow the back corridor on the first floor to be used for Museum purposes,... which they will undertake to make the finest museum of its kind in the country.” The area created by the arch and the two one-ton bronze, glass and iron doors, now the Benjamin Franklin Room, is 55 feet long, 20 feet wide and 23 feet high.

Bro. Herzog was commissioned to decorate the new Museum space, which hosted the Washingtoniana Exhibit in 1902 and the Franklin Bicentennial Exhibit in 1906. Probably due to the success of these two exhibits, and perhaps spurred by the completion of the beautiful mahogany display cases in 1908, still in use today, Bro. Wanamaker formally dedicated the Museum. Bro. Julius F. Sachse, the Librarian, became both the Librarian and Curator in 1908.

The Museum remained in that space until the early 1970s, at which time it became the Benjamin Franklin Room social hall it is today. The Museum moved back into the larger room once occupied by the
The Museum continues to collect and display new items, including the 17th century Support Our Constitution Flag, the restoration of which is expected to be complete by Flag Day, June 14, 2009. Recent exhibits include “The Initiated Eye: Secrets, Symbols, Freemasonry and the Architecture of Washington, D.C.,” and the on-going William Rush sculpture display. All items in the Museum are being benefited from the recently upgraded HVAC system which controls humidity levels and ensures preservation of the interior of the building.

As part of its dedication to the fraternity and the general public, the Museum participates in cooperative and collaborative ventures with other cultural institutions and organizations throughout the Greater Philadelphia region. They hosted the Greater Philadelphia Cultural Alliance annual meeting at the Masonic Temple in September and meetings for the 10,000+ membership of the American Association of Libraries that, in turn, shrank into the old Smoking and Conversation room. Besides those stored in the 1904 stacks, books were also placed in the Archives room – the rejuvenated coal bin in the sub-basement – in addition to countless Museum objects. Compact storage was installed in late 1994.

The Museum is open for tours during the fall, winter and spring months on Tuesdays-Fridays, beginning at 10 a.m., 11 a.m., 2 p.m., 3 p.m. and 4 p.m.; on Saturdays at 10 a.m., 11 a.m. and noon; or at other times through advance arrangements. Call (215) 988-1917 for more information.

100TH ANNIVERSARY

Isaac Hiesters Lodge No. 660, Reading

Through the recommendation of Lodge No. 62, Reading, Chandler Lodge No. 227 and Huguenot Lodge No. 377, Isaac Hiesters Lodge No. 660 was constituted on Oct. 17, 1908. The lodge was named for Isaac Hiesters, a member of Lodge No. 62 and the first District Deputy Grand Master (1826–1828) from Berks County, who served what then District 6.

The lodge held its 100th anniversary celebration on Sept. 27, which included a visit from Grand Master Gardner and a family picnic at the Rajah Shrine Complex.

Reading was located along a canal system with the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad connecting it to distant markets. It was the center of the iron industry, including W.E. Rempps, which cast the newel posts and possibly the steps and banister for the lower level of the rear staircase in the Masonic Temple.

Berk County was established by Conrad Weiser, the chief negotiator for every major treaty between the colonial settlers in Pennsylvania and the Iroquois Nations from 1731-1758. The county was also home to the families of President Abraham Lincoln, whose great-great-grandfather, great-grandfather and grandfather are buried there. Daniel Boone was born and lived in Berks County until he was 16; his birthplace still stands as a historic site.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

In 1958, Bro. George M. Leader was Governor of Pennsylvania. In the same year, Sputnik I, the first man-made satellite, fell from its orbit and the U.S. launched its first satellite. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) was also established and the first scheduled jet plane, Pan American, crossed the Atlantic Ocean in six hours and 12 minutes.

Forbes Trail Lodge No. 783, Export

Through the recommendation of Jeannette Lodge No. 750, Forbes Trail Lodge No. 783 was constituted on Jan. 16, 1958. That year, Gen. John Forbes and his soldiers cut through wilderness along the older Traders' Route, in Uniontown, to save time and avoid swollen streams and obstacles. The route was dubbed Forbes Trail and the lodge was established in its name nearly two centuries later.

To celebrate its 50th anniversary, the lodge held its anniversary banquet on Aug. 15 with guests including Grand Master Gardner. Throughout the meal, photos of the lodge's history were shared.

Export, also home to the Forbes Trail, was incorporated in 1911. This was the first town in the region to mine coal, transported via Pittsburgh, for international markets.

Created in 1773, Westmoreland County was named for the County of Westmoreland in England. For much of the 19th century, agriculture served as the county's economic base, with mining and metals growing after the Civil War. Many manufacturing and mining jobs were lost through the 1970s and 1980s. Sony then moved into the county, along with special machine shops, fabrication and electronics.
Most of the scaffolding on the side of the Masonic Temple facing JFK Boulevard and City Hall has been removed, and the result of the restoration work on the building is absolutely stunning.

Executive Director of the Library and Museum of Pennsylvania Andrew A. Zellers-Frederick describes the building as “emerging from its cocoon.”

The granite has been power-washed, and according to Bro. Stephen Gardner, R.W. Grand Master, the result is, “Wow! It’s so much brighter than I’d expected. It looks like it did 135 years ago when the building was dedicated.”

The scaffolding over the Broad Street (west) side of the building started coming down in sections in September. According to Zellers-Frederick, the remainder of the scaffolding is scheduled to be removed by December.

“Watching this evolution has been amazing… now that the layers of paint on the hand-carved woodwork and the stonework have been removed and freshly repainted, you can see the detail of the artistry, the leaves on the columns…” Grand Master Gardner said.

The keystones above the windows have been replaced into their proper position and repointed. The windows look magnificent, and the roof is being repainted.

“The artists of today have restored what the artists 135 years ago gave us,” Grand Master Gardner said. “It’s a complete metamorphosis… they found the beauty hidden underneath and restored its pristine appearance.”

Bro. Danny Hinds, Superintendent for the Masonic Temple, climbs the scaffolding frequently to see the work being done by J.J. DeLuca. “The building is shining… it looks fantastic,” he said.

Once the scaffolding on the walkway in front of the building is cleared, work on a new fence and the sidewalk paving will begin. The project should be completed in early 2009.

“This generation of Masons has given something to tomorrow’s generation. One hundred years from now, it’s my hope they’ll look back and say, ‘They did a nice job.’”

– Stephen Gardner, R.W. Grand Master

Much has been written about Rosslyn Chapel and the Knights Templar. Their history, symbolism and mythology have been a great source of inspiration and imagination. In the fine tradition of time-travelling fiction, “A Song in Stone” by William H. Hunt follows the adventures of a 21st century man as he makes his way through the 14th century.

Ian Graham is an unemployed television broadcaster in Edinburgh, Scotland, when he is offered a job by another network to make a documentary on Rosslyn Chapel. A few days before the filming is to begin, he makes a reconnaissance trip to Rosslyn. While there, he discovers something that is noticeable only to him. It is the mysterious music which only he can hear. On his return trip to the chapel to begin the filming, he discovers where the musical sound is strongest and suddenly finds himself in 14th century Santiago, Spain, on St. James’ Day, July 25, 1307. He also discovers that his two travelling companions, Rob and Juan La Rosa, were men he had just met in 21st century Rosslyn. Thus, the story continues on as the three intrepid pilgrims go on their “journey of light.” Ian experiences initiation rituals at various stops along the way which reveal a small piece of the puzzle as to what his purpose is, as well as channeling his inner warrior. There is danger at almost every turn as forces are out to stop them. Ian must get to Paris before Oct. 13, 1307, if he is to return to the 21st century and bring the “healing music” to our world.

The main character, Ian Graham, straddles two worlds throughout the book. He remembers his 21st century life but is not quite a fish out of water, because he also has a vague recollection of being a medieval warrior. Other characters that were part of his modern life pop back in as visions during his six initiations. The history of the Knights Templar propels the story forward as author Hunt, a Massachusetts Freemason, employs Masonic symbolism in the story. The Library has many books on Rosslyn Chapel and Knights Templar – either fiction or non-fiction – that are sure to interest just about everyone. Check out the Circulating Library Web site at www.pagrandlodge.org or call the library at (800) 462-0430, ext. 1933.

The book is divided into four parts: painting, sculpture, architecture and music. Painting represents half of the text. The author illustrates the esoteric elements of some of the most bizarre works of art, especially in painting. He begins with Byzantine icons as sacred, mystical objects and notes that their symbolism “follows strict Hermetic formulas.” In Botticelli’s “Primavera,” we glance at a classical revival of the Renaissance pagan gods. Frers provides an alchemical interpretation to Piero DiCosimo’s “The Death of Procris.” He also gives us a Gnostic and Hermetic interpretation of DaVinci’s “The Last Supper.” Bosch’s “The Garden of Earthly Delights” exhibits satirical motifs of eroticism and violence.

The author illustrates the esoteric arts in Albrecht Durer’s “Melancholia,” where the artist presents elements of alchemy, numerology, Kabbalah and Hermeticism. Frers points out a ladder in Durer’s picture as a Masonic symbol. However, the painting is from 1514 and Jacob’s ladder was only added to Masonic symbolism in the late 18th century by William Preston.

In the second half of the book, Frers begins with a selection of sculpture that includes the Sphinx, in which he discusses its age and facial likeness. The Venus de Milo represents anatomical perfection. He also discusses Michelangelo’s David and Cellini’s Perseus with the Head of Medusa. Frers offers no esoteric interpretation, only an analysis of their construction.

In architecture, the author discusses those monuments that were built as edifices for the gods: the Great Pyramid of Cheops, Chartres Cathedral, Notre Dame, El Escorial and Palladio’s Villa Cornaro. Chartres, says Frers, was built by the Knights Templar using Hermetic secrets and that Notre Dame contains stone carvings of alchemical symbols. El Escorial is a representation of Solomon’s legendary temple.

The final chapter discusses music and the relationship to the astral sounds of the planets. He describes the music of Mozart, Beethoven, Wagner, Debussy, the Beatles and Led Zeppelin among others, taking us from the classical to the modern rock with Satanic overtones.

The title is misleading. There is no real identification with any secret society. There are only general statements such as, “he was a Mason,” or “he studied the esoteric arts…” While there are several pages of bibliography, there are no footnotes. At one point, he identifies the colors red and green as Masonic, but never tells us where these are found in Masonry. The analysis of symbolism in art is interesting. I thought a great opportunity to tie in esoteric thought was overlooked by not giving concrete examples of color and cosmology relating to Kabbalistic and Hermetic thought or Masonic and Rosicrucian symbolism. He lessens the credibility of his work by bringing in questionable popular themes such as the Priory of Sion and the Holy Grail. The reader is left with only a glimpse of the subject that was the focus of the title. It would have been more illuminating had he connected the primary cosmic harmonies of Pythagoras to the tune we all know as “Louie, Louie.”
A NEW SPIRIT OF COOPERATION

A new spirit of cooperation now characterizes the Masonic youth groups, and you will often find DeMolays, Rainbow Girls and Job’s Daughters participating in and supporting each other’s programs.

In June, Mrs. Helen Snedden, Supreme Deputy for Rainbow, invited the Job’s Daughters to attend a weekend Rainbow program at the Patton Campus so the girls could learn more about each other’s organizations. In one activity, they created tie-dye t-shirts printed with a logo symbolizing their unity. In another activity, they created the outline of the state of Pennsylvania on the gym floor with masking tape, and then added the locations of their youth groups. To get a better idea of where they were located, all the girls stood on the map in areas close to their home town. (See photo above)

DeMolay officers from the Elizabethtown Chapter drove to Altoona on a Wednesday evening in July to set up disc jockey equipment and to provide a dance for the Rainbow Girls at their Annual Grand Assembly meeting.

The DeMolay Key Man Conference in July brought out some Rainbow Girls and Job’s Daughters to participate in an educational version of “Deal or No Deal.”

In September, Job’s Daughters hosted its annual co-ed flag football tournament with good attendance from both DeMolay and Rainbow. This is one of the most popular social events of the year, including flag football, a fabulous tailgate party and a dance.

Spending time together at Autumn Day, all participants agreed that the synergy of working together will continue to strengthen all the youth groups.

MEET BROTHER SEELEY...
21-YEAR-OLD MAYOR OF LINESVILLE

Over the years, quite a few Masons have served as the Mayor of their local community, but it isn't likely that many of them were elected at age 18. When Bro. Christopher R. Seeley became a member of Pine Lodge No. 498, Linesville, in April of this year, just short of his 21st birthday, he had already served as Mayor of the Borough of Linesville for more than two years.

Bro. Seeley splits his time between pursuing a double major in political science and music at Allegheny College in Meadville and his duties as Mayor in Linesville, but manages to find time for fraternal activity by serving as the Scribe for Erie Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

In April, he was the subject of a documentary on “One of the World’s Most Interesting Members of Generation Y” filmed by NHK, the Japan Broadcasting Company. The film crew followed his activities at college and at the borough to provide material for a serious program aimed at teaching young people how it is possible to make a difference in their communities.

Bro. Seeley has always been interested in local government and was surprised that many local residents didn’t pay much attention to it. With a population of over 1,100 at the 2000 census, Linesville is a one-traffic-light town, but it also isn't without serious issues that need to be discussed and solved. It is a popular tourist location, primarily for Pymatuning Lake and the Linesville spillway, famous for its oversized carp, and known as “the place where ducks walk on the fishes’ backs.” It is also situated at a traveling mid-point, exactly 500 miles to Chicago and 500 miles to New York City.

When Bro. Seeley decided to run for mayor as a junior in high school, it was his personal goal to get more people to care about the way the business of Linesville was being administered. He won a contested election against a long-time, well-known Linesville Borough Council Member. Interestingly, two other 18-year-olds were elected to serve in mayoral positions that day – one in Michigan and one in Iowa. His term as mayor will end on Dec. 31, 2009.

His family was very supportive when he decided to run for Mayor. He turned 18 just 54 days before the election. Earlier in the year, he was too young to circulate his own nominating petitions, so he convinced his parents to follow him on his door-to-door campaign. When he finished talking, they procured the signatures. He won the election by keeping voters focused on issues, and not his age.

He has a busy schedule and must be well-organized to fulfill his official duties while completing his studies, but he makes time for family and friends. In June, he visited Western Star Lodge No. 304 in Albion to be the Senior Master of Ceremonies for the conferral of the Master Mason Degree on three of his DeMolay brothers from Erie Chapter.

The sun shone brightly on about 8,000 visitors who mingled throughout the Masonic Village at Elizabethtown campus on Autumn Day, Sept. 20.

The annual open house is an opportunity for members of our Masonic family and their friends to tour the Masonic Village and learn about services offered, as well as to become more familiar with the many Masonic-affiliated organizations.

Highlights from the day included the Zembo Shrine and Tall Cedar Clowns, children’s activities such as face painting and games, several musical acts, a juggler, a mime, a Masonic CHIP program, a blood drive and a plethora of tasty food.

Bus tours of the campus were on-going throughout the day, and many took advantage of the opportunity to tour the new retirement living Sycamore Apartments.
QUEENS FOR A DAY

The ladies of the Star Points Building and Valley Care Masonic Center at the Masonic Village at Sewickley were treated to an “Enchanted Evening” earlier this year featuring fancy attire, delectable cuisine and regal entertainment surrounded by elegant décor. The event was the work of the William Slater II Master Mason’s Club at the Masonic Village at Sewickley and the generosity of program sponsors including 20 local Masonic lodges (see names to the right) and the Advisory Committee of the Order of the Eastern Star.

On Jan. 28, 2009, the ladies, many of whom are wives or widows of Masons or members of the Order of the Eastern Star, will once again receive royal treatment at the second annual “Enchanted Evening.”

This event had a lasting effect on last year’s guests as conversations about the evening continued for days afterwards. Such a program takes great commitment from the Master Mason’s Club, Masonic Village staff and volunteers from various Masonic organizations, including youth groups and Order of the Eastern Star members.

For lodges interested in supporting this event, full table sponsorship is $300 and half table sponsorship is $150. Sponsorship of a single lady is $50. All contributors will be named in the evening’s program and any monies received in excess of what is required for this event will be placed in a fund for future events benefiting the village’s widows.

If your lodge would like to contribute to the evening’s success, please send checks made payable to “Enchanted Evening” to co-chairman Bro. Tracy H. Miller, P.M., 2442 Masonic Drive, Sewickley, PA 15143. For more information, contact Bro. Miller at (412) 749-9086 or co-chairman Bro. David P. Rihl at (412) 741-7914.

On March 27, Robert Burns Lodge No. 464, Harrisburg, representative, Bro. John E. Adams, Jr., presented a check to Bro. Stephen Gardner, R.W. Grand Master, to cover the costs to expand the Masonic Tree of Life. The Tree of Life, located in the lobby of the Retirement Living clubhouse at the Masonic Village at Elizabethtown, was created and presented by the lodge in 1990 in honor of R.W. Past Grand Master Arthur J. Kurtz.

The current tree of 500 leaves, which is nearly full, will be expanded by the end of 2008 to add a small grove with two new trees each holding an additional 200 leaves. Funds received for the Masonic Tree of Life program are invested to cover the monthly resident service fee for those residents of Retirement Living whose funds have been depleted.

Contribution opportunities are as follows: Base Stones are available in three sizes for gifts of $10,000, $25,000 or $50,000; an Acorn is $5,000 and a Leaf is $1,000. If you are interested in making a contribution for a leaf, acorn or stone, please contact the Office of Gift Planning at (800) 599-6454.

Every year, the Pineknotter Days celebration, the popular town fair in Northumberland, sends the soft hum of voices, cheerful music and the smell of freshly fried food floating through the summer breeze.

Just a block and a half away, Keith Strouse lives with his sister’s family and mother, Pat. Every year, Keith looks forward to going to the fair. If he was having a good night, Keith could slowly make his way through a section of the fair, clutching his walker with every step. Some years, he only made it there once because he had to wait for a family member to push him down the street in his wheelchair. This year, thanks to the gift of a Joey Lift from Masonic Villages’ Outreach Program, Keith made it to the fair. In fact, he didn’t just go once, he went every night it was open!

The Joey Lift attaches to the inside of a van, and an electronic arm with a platform automatically extends out to the ground. A family member can roll the scooter onto the platform, and the arm lifts the scooter into the back of the van. “It’s really neat how the lift goes up into the van. You just push the red button, and it lifts you up,” Keith explained. This contraption made it possible for Keith’s family to buy him a scooter that he can use anywhere the van can go.

“Without the lift, we wouldn’t have been able to get the scooter,” Pat explained. “The lift came first, and then we got the scooter.” A scooter is too heavy for Pat to lift into the van, so without the lift, Keith had to walk everywhere. With Cerebral Palsy, walking creates serious hardships, and as a result, Keith was very limited in what he could do.

Pat’s late husband, Bro. Franklin Strouse, Eureka Lodge No. 404, Northumberland, was a Mason, and Pat’s family still receives publications and promotional material from the Grand Lodge. While the family could not support the Grand Lodge financially, Keith had some tangible needs.

Pat wrote a letter to the Gift Planning Office staff who forwarded the letter to Mrs. Debra Brockman, Director of Admissions and Outreach at Masonic Villages. Soon after, Pat got a phone call from Debra to discuss how the Outreach Program could best assist the family. “They had already researched obtaining a lift that would make Keith more mobile and independent but could not afford it, so these funds provided for that need,” Debra said. Together they decided that a gift, not a loan, of a Joey Lift through Home Assistance was the best fit.

“It was absolutely like a miracle to us. I don’t even know if we can put into words how much it means to us... The new Joey Lift allowed us to purchase a scooter which [Keith] has dreamed of for a long time,” Pat said. “Keith has never been able to even think of driving a car, and of course in every young man’s life they think of owning a car. Well, Keith is able to drive. It may be a scooter, but he’s able to steer and be independent.”

“I go around town on [the scooter]. I really like it!” Keith said.

The day Keith got his scooter, he took a trip around the block to show off the shiny red paint and his newfound freedom. When he didn’t come back, the family had to go out searching for him. They found Keith several blocks away – still riding the scooter, still showing off, still ecstatic. The family, not angry or frightened, just revelled in the fact that they had to go out and find him at all. “We had a good laugh that day,” Pat said. “He likes being on his own.”

Besides cruising around town, the lift and scooter have opened many doors for Keith and the family. Someday, Keith’s sister will be his primary caregiver, and having the lift and scooter will simplify her life. “Anything we do now affects the whole family’s life in the future,” Pat stressed.

Because of how much the lift and scooter enhance Keith’s mobility, he recently went on a job interview. This fall, he plans to break out the blue and white and head to State College for some action-packed Penn State football. With the new lift, friends and family members can borrow the Strouses’ van and take Keith to places he’s never enjoyed before. Even tasks such as going to the movies used to cause strain for Keith. Now, he’s able to roll right up to the theater and enjoy an evening of entertainment. “It’s really a godsend,” Keith said of the lift.

“You gift cannot be measured, in any way. Nor will it ever be forgotten,” Pat said. “We just can’t thank you all enough. It’s just meant so much to this family.”

The Outreach Program may be able to help you or a family member find the resources you need. For more information, visit our Web site at http://www.masonicvillagespa.org/outreach.php or call toll-free (800) 462-7664.

The Pennsylvania Freemason
RESTORING MUSIC TO THEIR SOULS

Thirty years ago, the Masonic Village at Lafayette Hill received a wonderful gift: a Steinway grand piano, which has brought life to resident programming programs in a way that few other instruments could have.

Musicians and piano technicians generally believe that the finest Steinway pianos ever built were manufactured between 1890 and 1940. This was the “Golden Age” of American piano manufacturing and the quality of handwork that was put into these pianos makes them quite desirable. The village’s piano was completed in the Steinway Factory on Aug. 3, 1907, and shipped to Philadelphia on Aug. 20, 1907. Unfortunately, use, wear and age had all taken their toll on the beautiful instrument. It had been repaired a few times, had not held a tuning very well for several years, and the action was no longer responsive to players’ touch.

Fortunately, staff found the Cunningham Piano Company in Philadelphia, which specializes in bringing these instruments back to their original glory. The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania had used this company to restore their Steinway grand piano and were very pleased. Many other area musicians and piano technicians also recommended the company.

Piano restoration is always custom work. It takes many months and involves duplicating some original components by hand that lose their resilience as the piano ages. The materials for this work are chosen very carefully, the execution must be done flawlessly, and the final fit of these components must be seamless for the piano to perform well again.

The work performed by Cunningham Piano Company took more than six months and cost thousands of dollars, but the time and cost were all well worth the investment. A premier, world class instrument, such as this Steinway, uses woods and techniques in its manufacture that are all but unavailable today. It would be difficult – next to impossible – to replace this instrument with a new one that would perform the same way. Any new piano that would come close to this instrument would cost many times over what was spent on the restoration.

The restored piano was recently revealed and has received nothing but rave reviews from residents and visiting musicians alike. The case has been restored to its original luster, the interior looks as if it has just come from the Steinway factory, and the warm sound is absolutely without equal. The residents and staff are very proud to be able to enjoy this piano again and, with proper care, will continue to enjoy it for many, many years.

We gratefully acknowledge the many donors who made this project possible: Anonymous, Cunningham Piano Company; Lodge No. 2, Philadelphia; Palestine-Roxborough Lodge No. 135, Philadelphia; SEPANPHA; Barbara Shields; The Grand Master’s Charity Golf Tournament – Eastern PA; and Williamson-Corinthian Lodge No. 368, Philadelphia.

The action of a grand piano has thousands of moving parts, all of which must be adjusted to work together seamlessly.

Masonic Village resident Ethel Mould plays the newly restored Steinway. Previously she was the pianist at Green Creek Church in Green Creek, N.J. Playing a piano of this quality has brought her much joy.
Referrals Welcome at Masonic Children’s Home

The Masonic Children’s Home, located on the Masonic Village at Elizabethtown campus, currently has a few openings to serve school-aged children. The children's home has the capacity to serve 40 youth within its five cottages, and provides its residents with clothing, medical services and numerous educational and recreational opportunities. The children are encouraged to participate in activities, sports, music, art and worship of their preference. They attend the Elizabethtown Area School District and/or the Lancaster Career and Technology Center and are given the tools they need to reach their full potential; in fact, last marking period, 15 students attained the honor roll, and two the distinguished honor roll. Upon graduation, the youth receive financial support for higher education.

The Masonic Children's Home is an ideal opportunity for children who are orphaned, being raised by aging grandparents, or who come from various socio-economic environments which do not provide the security and support necessary for healthy growth and development. Most importantly, prospective children must want to come to the children's home and take advantage of the opportunities afforded them.

Oftentimes, the children's home can accept sibling groups so they are not separated from each other. The children's home is able to provide additional tutoring services for children with learning disabilities and provide them the extra help they need to be successful in school.

The type of children who are not appropriate for residency include those with extreme treatment needs, police involvement or serious behavioral issues, in order to best serve all of the youth within a group setting.

Licensed by the Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, the Masonic Children's Home has an excellent reputation as a quality program. Children are cared for at no cost to the family; the Masonic Children's Home works with local lodges to sponsor them.

The children's home is privately funded through Pennsylvania Masons and generous donors, and does not accept any state or federal funding.

If you know of a child who needs a good home and who would benefit from this type of environment, please refer the parent(s) or guardian(s) to Ms. Virginia Migrala, Director, Children's Services, (717) 367-1121, ext. 33301, or vmigrala@masonicvillagespa.org.
